

For Immediate Release

ASCM CORPORATE AWARDS OF EXCELLENCE CELEBRATE SUPPLY CHAIN TEAMS AT KEYSIGHT TECHNOLOGIES, TEVA PHARMACEUTICALS AND LENOVO INTERNATIONAL SERVICES SUPPLY CHAIN

Individual awards honor professionals representing Coastal Pacific Food Distributors Inc., Boeing Distribution Services Inc. and AVI-SPL

CHICAGO -- September 13, 2023 — The Association for Supply Chain Management (ASCM), the global pacesetter of organizational transformation, talent development and supply chain innovation, is pleased to announce that Keysight Technologies, Teva Pharmaceuticals and Lenovo International Services Supply Chain have won the 2023 ASCM Awards of Excellence. The program also recognized individual winners – Sang Hyun Park, CSCP, CPIM, CLTD, director of contract business analytics at Coastal Pacific Food Distributors Inc.; Danielle Malave, performance and execution manager at Boeing Distribution Services Inc.; and Jeremy Codioli, CSCP, vice president of process improvement at AVI-SPL.

Since 2012, the ASCM Awards of Excellence program has recognized superior performance and dedication to advancing the field of supply chain management.

Keysight Technologies received the 2023 Award of Excellence — Corporate Transformation. This award recognizes an organization that brings fundamental, meaningful transformation that elevates the business; drives effective product offerings, reduces risk, advances supply chain performance, and achieves sustainable results. Keysight Technologies is honored for the corporation's equipment operating model, which positioned them as a leader in supply chain resilience and efficiency. The corporation was able to achieve significant cost savings, proven its commitment to continuous improvement and enhanced customer satisfaction – by adopting ASCM global standards, sharing the body of knowledge with key team members and tapping into the power of the Supply Chain Operations Reference (SCOR) model.

Teva Pharmaceuticals was presented with the 2023 Award of Excellence — Learning and Development, which recognizes an organization's commitment to productivity and advancement based on the ongoing application of educational concepts, competencies and best practices from ASCM performance-driven team training and the APICS body of knowledge. Teva Pharmaceuticals achieved this award by engaging in ASCM's team training – fostering growth and contributing to ongoing advancements. Investments in Certified in Production and Inventory Management (CPIM) and Certified Supply Chain Professional (CSCP) education empowered 400 cross-functional staff, boosting supply chain prowess and contributing to the overall supply chain success.

The 2023 Award of Excellence — Making an Impact was awarded to Lenovo International Services Supply Chain. This award honors an organization's commitment to developing policies that integrate responsible practices into daily business operations and focus on sustainability. Lenovo International Services Supply Chain won this award based on their commitment to zero waste, greenhouse gas reduction and shipping optimization. Notably, strategic logistics efforts surpassed ocean shipment goals and curtailed the carbon footprint. Moreover, the company reduced packaging to slash carbon emissions by 160 tons with a strong emphasis on enhanced forecasting, efficient parts harvesting, and extended life cycles, which led to a remarkable 76% recycling rate.

In addition to the three corporate awards, ASCM also recognized three individuals for their exceptional work in supply chain. Sang Hyun Park, CSCP, CPIM, CLTD, director of contract business analytics at Coastal Pacific Food Distributors Inc., received the 2023 Award of Excellence — Supply Chain Leader. Park is a true industry leader who is dedicated to making a meaningful difference through his supply chain career. He uses his passion for effective communication, combined with a talent for research and benchmarking, to achieve meaningful sales growth while maintaining an excellent customer experience. Plus, he is dedicated to nurturing the next generation by delivering a clear message to young professionals that there's no limit to one's potential in the supply chain field.

Danielle Malave, performance and execution manager at Boeing Distribution Services Inc., was presented with the 2023 Award of Excellence — Diversity and Inclusion Champion for her extraordinary efforts to ensure all supply chain team members are represented. Malave does this through cross-functional education about cultural differences, which fosters a space where people are empowered to engage, bring forward ideas and participate in important conversations.

Finally, the 2023 ASCM Award of Excellence – Emerging Supply Chain Leader was awarded to Jeremy Codioli, CSCP, vice president of process improvement at AVI-SPL. Codioli continues to lift up the people around him by encouraging them to pursue ongoing training and education — as well as focusing on innovation and creating an inspiring and supportive team setting. This mindset helped them achieve a 73% defects reduction and nearly $10 million in cost-savings annually.

“It's vital that we recognize supply chains and industry professionals who are dedicated to excellence; the advancement of the industry; and positive, lasting change in sustainability and corporate responsibility,” said ASCM CEO Abe Eshkenazi, CSCP, CPA, CAE. “The corporate programs and individuals we honored here today exemplify all of these qualities.”

The Awards of Excellence program will open for 2024 entries next spring. Learn more about the awards here.

About ASCM

The Association for Supply Chain Management (ASCM) is the global pacesetter of organizational transformation, talent development and supply chain innovation. As the largest association for supply chain, ASCM members and worldwide alliances fuel innovation and inspire accountability for resilient, dynamic and sustainable operations. ASCM is built on a foundation of world-class APICS education, certification and career resources, which encompass award winning workforce development, relevant content, groundbreaking industry standards and a diverse community of professionals who are driven to create a better world through supply chain. To learn more, visit ascm.org.

###